FACTS ABOUT THE CONFEDERATE BOND STORY.

A Chicago Paper Objects to Clara Louise Kellogg's Choice of a Husband—Harry Genet, Tweed's Old Partner, Released from Jail—Etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Nov. 12.—Tribune: The history is published of an attempt by our government to get possession of assets belonging to the confederate government abroad. These assets are the same as those on which recent speculation in confederate bonds was based. Various contracts appear to have been made within the past twenty years to pay liberally for such property reserved and turned over to the United States, but as the net result to the government only thus far amounted to $5000, the fund available to payment of the bonds can hardly be a large one. The recovery of this $5000 even required the [illegible] effort of a 60 per cent. contract, and the [illegible] of a commissioner and a treasury agent, [illegible] between them collected confederate property [illegible] brought in $100,000. From this this they [illegible] obliged to deduct $95,000 for expenses of collection, and on arrival of the contractor he is said to [illegible] that the discovery was made of evidence for [illegible] he is entitled to be paid, so that it is too [illegible] to feel sure how the government is [illegible] come out in the end. Inventory of [illegible] shows there are $29,000,000 in Europe and [illegible] in the United States, or $40,000,000 in all. [illegible] $11,000,000 in gold, hard money, was deposited to the credit of the rebel government in [illegible], Brussels, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Amsterdam and London. It is of course a little [illegible] that with twenty years of searching and [illegible] none of it should ever turn up. But [illegible] was because contractors kept devoting [illegible] to other assets, such as item No. [illegible], the spoils of the Florida and [illegible] and item No. 27, postage stamps, a portion [illegible] are now in a bank in Canada.

[illegible] Elevator Feeling.

[illegible]—The recent elevator accident [illegible] general feeling of uneasiness. It is estimated [illegible] people ride daily, Sundays excepted, [illegible] elevators. The Sun says: There are [illegible] elevators in New York, and that [illegible] and freight elevators in the city [illegible] one wire rope breaks on [illegible] week and the car is caught by the [illegible] without accident. It is many years [illegible] hold and fell to the bottom.

Bulls and Bears.

[illegible] Nov. 12.—Bulls in the stock market [illegible] a healthful reaction, not likely [illegible] especially with an upward movement. [illegible] in the Bond Market.

[illegible] very heavy buying by wealthy private [illegible] while large amounts were taken by [illegible], partly for the purpose of investment [illegible] circulation. Banks generally report [illegible] scarce and in great demand, and [illegible] the movement to increase in circulation. [illegible] feature of the market was the sudden [illegible] of large California orders for bonds.

[illegible] Stock and Bond Notes.

[illegible] little in this market yesterday. [illegible] Orleans and Texas. The demand [illegible] increasing daily. Short interest [illegible] increasing. There is a good borrowing [illegible] Erie, Wabash common and Denver. State Lines and Ori[illegible] are comparatively dull and weak, [illegible] declines at the close. Greene Mountain [illegible] to $4 40. Total sales at both exchanges, [illegible]

The New York Majorities.

[illegible] information received at the republican [illegible] rooms yesterday placed the majority [illegible] republican state ticket at 12,722. These [illegible] complete except from three counties, [illegible] estimated. When full returns are [illegible] these three counties, it is probable [illegible] will reach nearly 14,000. It was [illegible] talk in the state committee rooms [illegible] was due President Arthur for the [illegible] in the canvass. A Complimentary Book.

[illegible] 12.—The World, reviewing a book [illegible] by Lady Dufferin, says, a [illegible] has never been bestowed [illegible] scarcely anything objectionable [illegible] the fury of the expectoration [illegible] from the chewing and effusion [illegible] takes up arms against the old trol[illegible] she is localizing it in California [illegible] readers to believe that San [illegible] must in this respect be on the [illegible] with New York in 1881. Except the [illegible] everything is rose colored.

[illegible] intimation of growing disposition [illegible] separation excites but languid interest [illegible] surprise. Goodwin Smith's and [illegible] declarations had measurably prepared [illegible] mind for a contingency which [illegible] regret, but no important party [illegible] seeking Canadian secession forcibly. [illegible] Journal remarks that your annexationists [illegible] that the period of "gush" is [illegible] which represents a considerable [illegible] society contrary wise. The form in [illegible] announcement was made is thought to be [illegible] possibility of such an event is [illegible] that it caused little discussion.

[illegible] Newspaper.

[illegible] 12.—The Morning Herald says [illegible] of the marriage to be contracted [illegible] Clara Louise Kellogg and Mr. Whit[illegible] New Yorker, that the latter is entirely [illegible] the cantatrice, having been involved [illegible], notably one of a late date, on [illegible] he was followed about the country [illegible] Frenchwoman, whom he misled [illegible] California in search of him. It is a [illegible] to Miss Kellogg's friends that she [illegible] be fastened to so unworthy a man.

Frothingham's Belief.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The Times says: A Boston journal publishes a letter from New York to-night which announces that Rev. Octavius Brooks Frothingham, long famous as the prince of free thinkers in the United States, has decided for various reasons to stop denying the truth of Christianity. He will wait for more light before making a full recantation of his heterodox views. According to the Christian Intelligencer, which when Mr. Frothingham went to Europe three years ago, devoted a special article to him, he was accustomed to open his service with prayer, but his prayers were addressed to an unknown God whose existence was to him largely a matter of doubt. Frothingham in his statement speaks first of the fact that he had to fight alone. "No young man grew up into his way of thinking; then people thought because he was a radical preacher he must be radical in everything else. He was expected to give moral and material assurance to any one whose ideas of right and wrong differed from those of other people, and his independent church became a sort of magnet of queer and not altogether pleasant persons. Mr. Frothingham says one fact began to loom up before my mental vision in a disquieting way that the drift of free thought teaching was unquestionably toward a dread materialism, which I abhorred as deeply as any evangelical clergyman. I know men who would become leaders in the free thought movement, don't stop where I stop, where they feel no traditions behind them. They have no special training for the work of restoring, in which light I regard much of my work. The situation, when I stopped preaching two years ago and went to Europe, was about as follows: Evangelical religion was stronger, churches were better filled, and there was more of religious spirit abroad, than when I began twenty years ago. Such men as came forward as teachers in the free thought movement, were out and out materialists. Lastly my own position was unpleasant and my health was failing. As to the fact that revealed religion as we call it, is stronger to-day than it was twenty years ago, I have no doubt it is stronger here and in Europe, notwithstanding the much talked of German materialism, and the religion of to-day is all the stronger than that of twenty years ago, in that it is throwing off the secretions of ignorance and presents fewer features incompatible with good sense and charity. The statement, which is very long, gives in detail the free-thinking preacher's struggles with himself, and finally confesses that either his inherited conservatism has deserted him or he has received more light. He is not sure that he regrets his past work in New York, for there is much that needs to be reformed in religion, even if its foundations be sound. He is unsettled about matters concerning which years ago he had no doubt, and has experienced a growing suspicion that there might be something behind or below what we called revealed religion, of which scientific thinkers of our time are beginning vaguely to distinguish as an influence that cannot be accounted for at present, but which nevertheless exists. To my old friends and followers who may feel grieved at such an admission on my part, I would say that I am no more a believer in revealed religion to-day than I was a year ago, but as I said before, I have doubts which I had not then. The creeds of to-day do not seem in my eyes to be so wholly groundless as they were then and while I believe the next hundred years will see changes in them, I do not think they are destined to disappear. To sum up the whole matter, the work I have been doing appears to lead to nothing and may have been grounded upon mistaken premises. Therefore it is better to stop, but I do not want to give the impression that I recant anything. I simply stop denying and wait for more light."

The Pacific Coast Trade.

New York, Nov. 12.—Commercial Bulletin: Shipments of California and Oregon wheat, which have been so large this season, are attracting much attention at the produce exchange. Said a prominent wheat dealer, the increase is due in part to the fact while eastern speculators have been holding wheat at high prices, Pacific coast people have been quietly disposing of their wheat and while exportation at the Atlantic is very dull, at San Francisco vessels are crowding for freights and yet berth room is in demand.

Said a prominent ship owner, sailing vessels are finding no grain charters here and few at other Atlantic ports, and unwilling to change into oil carriers, have been turning their attention to San Francisco, where charters can be effected to the United Kingdom at 72s 6d. This has been specially noticeable in the case of provincial vessels, which are being largely superseded in the Atlantic by steamers, and are therefore compelled to seek business elsewhere, and many of them have gone to San Francisco. A prominent ship owner, when asked if Nova Scotia and Canadian ship owners generally were turning their attention to Pacific coast trade, said it was true, and that they had been doing this for months, owing to low freights in the Atlantic trade. Sailing vessels are more than ever turning their attention to long voyages. The marked increase of steam tonnage has caused sailing vessels to turn to deep water voyages where they are safer from the close competition of steamships. But this is not confined to California and Oregon alone, as since October 1st vessels have cleared from New York for China, Japan, Australia and different parts of the East Indies. The transfer of tonnage from the provinces to the Pacific coast trade is perhaps the best illustration of the supply that can be given.

Tea Importers and Jobbers at outs.

A prominent tea dealer said yesterday, a marked change in the method of conducting tea business is taking place which is sure to amount in time to an almost complete revolution, yet it has escaped the attention of newspapers. I will explain. The jobbers and brokers having taken it into their heads to import tea on their own account instead of purchasing of large importers, the latter have adopted retaliatory measures which will sweep many of the brokers out of the business. They are now throwing their large consignments of tea on arrival into the auction rooms where they are enabled to sell at a small profit or at cost. They sell in small lots so that retail and small wholesale dealers find it for their interest to purchase in the auction rooms instead of the jobbers and brokers.

The Pacific Mail Contract.

The Tribune has the following: No renewal of contract between the Pacific mail steamship company and overland railroad has yet been made. An effort to secure reduction in the charges of the Panama company for transportation across the isthmus has proved in vain. Directors of the company have refused without a dissenting voice to make any change in the provisions of the existing contract. A meeting of the Pacific mail committee with presidents of overland railroads was to have been held yesterday, but owing to business engagements of Sidney Dillon, president of the Union Pacific, it was postponed indefinitely. It is understood that the officers of the Pacific roads are strongly opposed to the payment of any money subsidy to steamship lines and they are willing to guarantee that line a full cargo in return for maintaining through rates but not to pay for freight which the steamship company is unable to carry. They say that conditions of business have changed absolutely since the contract was first made about four years ago.

Railroad Notes.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Capt. O. W. Rodgers, general manager of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, received a dispatch this evening that the upper house of the council of the Choctaw nation to-day passed the bill granting a right of way through the nation to that road, and that it was approved by the chief of the nation. This insures the speedy construction of the St. Louis and San Francisco road from Fort Smith, Ark., to Paris, Texas, where it will connect with the Chicago, Texas and Mexican road, and also with the whole Texas system.

Hunt on Arthur.

Boston, Nov. 12.—Secretary of the Navy Hunt was this evening entertained by the Merchants' Club, and referring to the administration President Arthur he said: "Those who had judged unkindly of the president did injustice to his merits. He brought to the discharge of his functions no ordinary experience. He is in every respect a worthy follower of the lamented Garfield. Let no man do him cruel injustice in supposing he is a mere politician. He will not be president of one party or of a state, but president of a nation." When the secretary had ended the company arose and gave three enthusiastic cheers for President Arthur and three more for Secretary Hunt.

Hon. Lyon Playfair, deputy speaker of the house of commons, was also present and on rising to respond was greeted with three cheer for Queen Victoria. He expressed the regret of the English people that parliament was not in session when the death of Garfield occurred, so as to give formal expressions of sympathy.

Paper Company Fails.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 12.—The Massachusetts Paper Company has failed with liabilities of $300,000, because of attachments served by the Springfield National Bank, Arnold & Hart of New York, the Kansas City Paper Company of Missouri and the Russell Paper Company of Lawrence. The sole member of the Massachusetts company is Philo Olive, of Kansas City and Denver, who is expected here Monday, when the concern will go into insolvency. The managers—S. M. Hunt, J., and W. H. Carslye—say the assets cannot be ascertained as yet. The company has several warehouses here and a branch office at Pittsfield. It is claimed that much of the outstanding paper is good. Employes have been discharged.

Death of Mrs. Edwin Booth.

New York, Nov. 13.—Mary Francis McVicker, wife of Edwin Booth, died at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of her parents, No. 13 West Fifty-third street. Remains will be taken to Chicago for interment. Arrangements for funeral will be completed Monday.

A Narrow Escape.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—News is received here that on Friday night the bed of Prairie creek broke through into one of the mines of the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermont Railroad Company at Streator in this state. The bed of the stream at the point where the break was made is only eight or nine inches above a bed of some 28 feet of quicksand, and the rains of Friday caused pressure enough to break through the bed and the quicksand into the mine. The hole thus made is about 200x100 feet. Only four men were working in the mine when the break occurred, and all of them escaped. Most of the implements and all but two of the mules employed in the shaft were gotten out. Loss to the company is estimated at $100,000. It will require four or five weeks to pump out the mine and repair the break. The mine is the largest soft coal mine working in America.

The Guildhall Banquet a very Tame Affair—Gladstone's Speech without Point—Our Navy Troubling the English Mind.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Nov. 13.—The Herald's London special says: The announcement of a proposed increase of the American navy is generally discussed. The Pall Mall Gazette says: "The lesson in naval construction which Americans administered to us some 20 years ago may still serve to remind us of the advisability of carefully watching any change in organization or development of the United States navy. It is fully time that our contractors should realize the fact that the strength of a navy is not in huge iron clads only, nor in crawling small craft, but in certain, perhaps a large proportion, of fast and powerful cruisers."

A Tame Affair.

No Guildhall banquet in recent years has passed off so tamely as Wednesday's. Speeches were wholly free from sensational interest and were listened to with scant politeness by the audience present and have produced little effect on the general public. Gladstone's speech contained but two points, neither new. He reaffirmed his resolution to enforce the law in Ireland and crush obstructions in the house of commons. He took no notice of challenges from many quarters to state his views of the working of the land act. Liberal journals throughout the country agree that it would be unnecessary and indecorous for him to offer ministerial defense for his proceedings, which are judicial or quasi-judicial. The Irish league organs complain of the emptiness of the speech and absence of any indications of Gladstone's future policy or of the duration of the present repression. The conservative Irish press admits that Gladstone is entitled to congratulate himself on the restoration of the authority of law. English tories of the more violent kind openly threaten to resist every measure for the suppression of obstruction in the house and privately assert that Sir Stafford Northcote has already been held to pressure from the turbulent spirits of the party, who are practically pledged to oppose ministerial proposals. The lord mayor himself, a tory, failed in an attempt to draw from Gladstone a statement as to his plan with municipal jobbery and corruption, which the corporation, as now organized, is determined to perpetuate. Granville's reference to Gladstone is understood to have been intended to dispose finally of the absurd but reiterated rumors of his resignation. American topics occupied nearly half of Granville's speech, which displayed marked friendliness throughout.

Honor to America.

Everybody agrees that the honors paid to the American flag and the popular applause with which it was greeted were the most striking features of the lord mayor's show.

A Relic of Olden Days.

A relic of the last Welsh parliament is to disappear next week in the demolition of the house at Dolgelly where Owain Plyndwr convened the members of the fifteenth century. An attempt to preserve the building as a public museum failed for want of funds. The house will be pulled down to make room for an iron monger's shop.

The Lefroy Case.

Lefroy's case having been decided by the judge and jury is now before the final bar of public opinion. A petition is being got up for his reprieve on the ground of insanity, both his father and grandfather having been so afflicted. It is not improbable that a reprieve may be granted.

The land commissioners have resolved in all cases where notices have been served on or before to-day it will note the application, even if it sit until midnight. This greatly increases tenants' facilities.

Nothing has been decided respecting ministers of war, marine and finance. Leon Say probably will not join the cabinet. Spuller will be under secretary of foreign affairs.

Furthermore, a warrant of arrest has been issued against him by A. Juame, minister of instruction, for the emission of 3,000,000 francs of antedated bills subscribed by him, after being dismissed from the management of the company. M. Vallaro, Jr., succeeded his father, at 24 years of age, with a salary of 150,000 francs. He spent nearly 1,000,000 francs in eighteen months, and is now in America.

Spain and the Panama Canal.

Madrid, Nov. 12.—In the senate to-day the marquis of Secane announced an interpellation relative to the exclusive control of the Panama canal claimed by the United States government and the attitude of Spain in relation thereto. In the chamber of deputies Premier Sagasta said he intended to observe the principles of the constitution of 1876 interpreted in a liberal sense. If modifications were necessary they would only be made after the most careful consideration, because Spain had to deplore two calamities of civil war and too frequent change of constitution.

The Government Defeated.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The Post says results of the supplementary elections for members of reichstag, up to the present, demonstrate more and more that it will be impossible for the government, even assisted by clericals, to pass the tobacco monopoly bill.

Bismarck's Position.

The best German authority represents Bismarck as sincerely resolved on resignation. The emperor resists, hoping for an arrangement with Rome under which ultramontanes may support Bismarck with the German parliament without asking for the repeal of the anti-Catholic laws, which Bismarck steadily refuses to propose. English Catholics say no movement could be so favorable for negotiation with the pope considering that he can no longer depend on Austria. The same reason is urged for something like a renewal of diplomatic relations between England and the vatican.

Bismarck has arrived.

Socialist Defeated.

In the second ballot for members of the reichstag in two districts of this city, the progressists Traeger and Klotz, defeated the socialists Bebel and Hazenclever by narrow majorities.

Bombay, Nov. 12.—Heavy rains have occurred in Mysore and prices of food have consequently fallen 25 per cent. The anxiety in regard to crops has abated.

The French Political Situation.

New York, Nov. 12.—To-morrow's Tribune will have the following from London: Gambetta's acceptance of office elicits a chorus of English approval mingled with the keen regrets of some of his best friends that he has committed himself to a declaration involving the permanent retention of Tunis and condoning buccaneering methods of acquisition. They remind him that the Bardo treaty which he declares shall be implicitely executed was extorted at bayonet's points from the lawful ruler for whom France professed friendship. This, says the Spectator, shows that Gambetta, by accepting the doctrine that French interests can override justice, deliberately prefers the prestige and consideration this gives rise to. It says this causes grave apprehensions as to her future foreign policy. Other journals remark that Bismarck's defeat at the German elections encourages France to persevere in a policy which good sense and equity alike condemn. Clemenceau's powerful speech, which was an audible exposure of the iniquities of the Tunis expedition, had produced a great impression in England, and people here hoped that Gambetta, regardless of the rivalry between himself and Clemenceau, would take a similar line. Nevertheless general satisfaction is expressed that Gambetta, who has been so long wielding the real power, now accepts the responsibility. The English hope also that his accession will improve the chances of a new commercial treaty.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Strict Order.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Gilfillan, treasurer of the United States, has ordered that no bond deposited as security for circulation of public deposits shall hereafter be surrendered or allowed to pass from the custody of the treasurer's office, except upon surrender of circulating notes, deposit of lawful money, deposit of other bonds in the name of the treasurer of the United States in trust, or in case of a depository bank, upon order of the secretary of the treasury.

Large Receipts.

At the close of business to-day there had been $9,840,950 in U. S. bonds received at the treasury under the 100th call.

Land Court Matters.

The land court decisions during the week follow similar lines to those previously reported. No case has yet been reported in which a tenant establishing a plausible claim has failed to obtain a large reduction in rent. The principles laid down in the Crawford cases have been steadily acted on by the other commissions. Tenants' applications increase daily. Four thousand were received yesterday. The story telegraphed to America and retelegraphed here, that tenants almost unanimously refuse to pay rent is untrue, but many tenants, where league agents still exercise pressure refuse, and boycotting still exists. Lawlessness and dishonesty steadily inculcated for two years do not disappear instantly, but while the testimony varies as to various parts of Ireland, rents are undoubtedly paid in large districts. Landlords who know Ireland best consider that the proportion of payments will increase largely during the winter. The substantial failure of the "no rent" manifesto and Croke's testimony sufficiently indicate that generally where rent is withheld, it is not considered as withheld in obeyance to Kilmainham dictation. Reports of the Rev. Sheehy's and Mr. Healy's speeches in New York show that they are unaware of the extent of the day of league terrorism. Sheehy holds no important place among the league leaders, and Healy, though he distinguished himself by mastering details of the land act, is chiefly remarkable otherwise for his extreme vulgarity and bitterness.

Guiteau's Brother.

John Wilson Guiteau, of Boston, arrived here to-night. He will visit his brother at the jail to-morrow.

A New District Attorney.

It is rumored that Elihu Root, who accompanied the president from New York, has been tendered and has accepted the office of district attorney for the District of Columbia, now held by Col. Corkhill. The rumor says his commission will be signed on Monday, thus enabling Root to open proceedings in the Guiteau trial.

That Never-Ending Scandal Case.

The testimony of Horatio C. King, Jr., was taken this afternoon in the Christiancy divorce case subject to the ruling of the chancellor as to its admission. It was before him the deposition of Giro was made. He testified that Mrs. Christiancy came to his office and asked to see letters which had been put in purporting to have been written by her to Giro. The examiner showed them to her and she read them over and remarked that she did not know she could be so sentimental, that she had a purpose in writing them and that she wanted to entrap the scoundrel.

Arrived at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 13th.—President Arthur arrived from New York to-night. He was accompanied by Secretary Blaine, Judge Folger, Postmaster General James, and Mrs. James, third assistant postmaster General Hazen, Colonel Geo. W. Bliss and Elihu Root. Attorney General MacVeagh, joined the party at Philadelphia. The President drove quietly to Senator Jones' residence. Secretary Folger accompanied Postmaster General James to the hotel.

MARINE DISASTERS.

Steamer Brunswick Foundered.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—An Evening Journal's Detroit despatch received here this morning, says the steamer Brunswick owned by Capt. Berwick of Detroit, built last year at Wyandott and valued at $157,000, foundered last night in Lake Erie, off Dunkirk. The engineer and cooks were lost. The Brunswick was rated A 1, with a star and was insured for $75,000, of which $55,000 was placed in Chicago. She was commanded by Capt. Chamberlain.

Buffalo, Nov. 12.—The schooner Carlingford, from Duluth for Buffalo, and the steamboat Brunswick, bound up the lakes, collided when off Fort Colborne this morning, both sinking. The crew of the Carlingford, consisting of Captain Holmes and six men, escaped after a pull of twenty miles in a rough sea, with the exception of a sailor named Edward Conway. Three of the crew of the Brunswick were also lost.

Lost on the Lakes.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Reports of damage to lake shipping continue to come by telegraph and by returning vessels which were out in the recent severe storm. No lives are reported lost, however, and losses, although large in the aggregate, are small in individual cases.

Ferryboat Capsized.

A private telegram from Troy, N. Y., reports that a ferry boat plying between that city and West Troy capsized this evening and ten persons were drowned.

SPORTING NOTES.

A Costly Cup.

New York, Nov. 12.—The yacht Atlanta recently beaten by Mischief will winter here and is still confident of success. She will challenge again for the American cup next spring. The club treasurer yesterday said:

"This American cup is worse than a hundred shorts on Comstock. This season alone it has cost the club and members in actual cash just $[illegible],000."

Discussing the Subject.

Guaymas, Mex., Oct. 31., (via Tucson, A. T., Nov. 12.)—A Yaqui, convicted of murdering a Mex family beating his brains out with a stone, was shot outside of Hermosillo this day at 8 A. M. He refused to be blindfolded and met his fate staring at the five soldiers who shot him.

Seven Bad Harvests.

[Chicago Tribune.]

In some of the richest districts of England the harvest of 1881 makes the seventh bad one in succession. In the south, in addition to bad crops, a heavy misfortune has fallen on farmers in the shape of liver rot in sheep, so that since 1874 the flocks of six southeastern counties have decreased 13 per cent, while an abstract of agricultural returns for all Great Britain shows a diminution of as much as 20 per cent in the same period. Everywhere except in Cumberland and Westmoreland, agriculture is at a low ebb of prosperity, and from the Tyne to the Thames, according to the London Times, and from the Severn to the Solent, comes the same story. From the fertile flats of Holderness and the chalk wolds of the East Riding of Yorkshire to the broad vales of Somerset and the sheep walks of Wiltshire; from the fens of Cambridgeshire to the hop gardens of Kent, the cry, only varied in degree by circumstances, arises of distress and ruin. The chief causes of this distress, as distinct from successive bad seasons, are set down as follows: Excessive rent, unfair taxation, want of security for capital, injury from game, increased cost of labor, and heavy losses of live stock from contagious disease.

CALIFORNIA.

Sugar Declining.

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—The local sugar refiners marked down their rates ½ cent all round to-day, restoring prices to the schedule adopted August 1st. This is the first change since September 24th. Prices have been changed 8 times this year.

Railroad Work.

The board of trade to-day held a meeting, at which a proposition to supervisors to grant the Ocean Shore or any other railroad exclusive privileges and rights of way in the city was strongly opposed. It is reported that the Ocean Shore road has purchased a tract of land near the industrial school, and will set a force of Chinamen at work immediately to prepare a site for the erection of a round house and other buildings.

Quarantine Arrangements.

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—A Sacramento dispatch says the state board of health has made final arrangements for inspecting and quarantining cars on the Central Pacific.

The Prison Convention.

The evening session of the prison convention was mainly devoted to discussion of a resolution which favored ingrafting of instructions in mechanical art in the public school system as one of the principal factors in preventing crime, and the resolution was finally voted down as impracticable. Several papers were read and general discussion followed. Before adjourning sine die the convention adopted a number of the usual complimentary resolutions.

Attempted Suicide.

Bodie, Nov. 12.—John T. Welch, county assessor, attempted to commit suicide this morning at Bridgeport by shooting himself. It is thought the wound may not prove fatal. A shortness in his accounts, largely, however, on account of collections which he should have made, but did not, is the cause.

THE CAPITAL MINE.

Flattering Reports from the North Santiam District—Return of Two Directors who Express much Hope.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

Salem, Nov. 2, 1881.

The return to Salem on yesterday of Hon Jno. G. Wright and Capt Miles Bell, from the Capital gold and silver mine, bringing with them 70 pounds of bullion, created no little excitement in that usually quiet little burg, and the bullion being placed on exhibition in W. W. Martin's show window, attracted considerable attention. Rumors of all kinds being afloat as to the latest developments reported your correspondent interviewed the gentlemen in question, with a view of ascertaining if possible some reliable information concerning the mine and from them we learn that prospects are indeed flattering with every indication of ultimate success. The corporation, organized under articles duly filed in the office of the secretary of state, under date of August 8, 1876, have located a claim 1500x600 feet on the Little North fork of the Santiam river about twenty miles above Mehama, and some 45 miles from Salem, the location being near the dividing line between Marion and Clackamas counties. Although quite recently but little had been done towards developing the resources the parties interested were confident that the claim was a valuable one. Assays of specimen rock gave evidence of immense wealth. The ore was, however reported as difficult to work and matters have therefore run along quietly until within the past two months. About that time two old miners, Messrs. Hermann and Sengstor, who have had experience in the Comstock and Leadville mining regions negotiated with the company for the lease of the mine for six months for the purpose of experimenting with the ore. Satisfactory arrangements were effected and they at once commenced operations and they at least are jubilant over the result and claim that the lead discovered excels by far Comstock in its palmiest days. They have a process by which the ore can readily be reduced, and from 360 pounds of it melted as an experiment they secured 60 pounds of bullion worth in gold and silver from $4 50 to $2 per pound, the balance being composed of lead, copper, antimony and zinc. After experimenting with the ore already in sight they are firm in their belief that it will run all the way from $10 to $400 per ton, and the lead, which at first they supposed was only from twelve to eighteen inches in width, has turned out to be from three to ten feet in width of rich ore, there being already nearly 200 tons in sight. The tunnel which has been opened from time to time, is now 312 feet in length, entering directly into the mountain, the inner end being about 100 feet below the surface. Wood and water is convenient in great abundance, and the trail leading to the mines is excellent during the greater portion of the year. The gentlemen now working the mines intend visiting Salem during the ensuing week and will make a detailed report to the company for the purpose of entering into a new contract by which the company will furnish them with a mill, the cost of which will not exceed $2000, with capacity for grinding about four tons of ore daily. With this they expect to accomplish rich results and make a showing that will greatly increase the value of the stock.

The corporation has a capital stock of $1,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares of $1 each. The incorporators are Hon. Edward Hirsch, ex-Gov. S. F. Chadwick, ex-Mayor John G. Wright, John W. Gilbert, Esq., Judge W. P. Lord, Capt. Miles Bell, H. C. Sterling and J. H. Haas. The officers are as follows: Hon. John G. Wright, president; Hon. S. F. Chadwick, secretary; Hon. [illegible] J. Murphy, treasurer, together with the following board of directors, of which the president and secretary are ex-officio members: Hon. Edward Hirsch, Capt. Miles Bell, L. B. Crossman, John W. Gilbert and H. C. Sterling. These gentlemen are all well and favorably known not only at Salem but throughout the state, and each and all feel a certain degree of assurance in the ultimate success of their enterprise, and having started with the intention of developing the mining resources of the Santiam district the progress of the undertaking is watched with no small degree of interest, very many of our best citizens being of the belief that it is rich with mineral wealth. One-tenth of the capital stock was set aside as floating or working stock, only about 60,000 shares of which remain unsold. Over nine-tenths of the entire amount of stock has already been subscribed for. The managers of the mine are, it seems, fully resolved to give the enterprise a fair test with the hope that good results may follow.

Appreciation of "The Oregonian."

[Pacific Christian Advocate.]

Rumors have been on the streets for some time, and they even got into some of the papers, that The Oregonian had changed hands. Not crediting the rumors, we have not referred to them. We give The Oregonian people credit for a large share of newspaper sense. That paper is the representative newspaper of this coast. We sometimes disagree with its opinions, and say so; but having been accustomed to read the ablest secular dailies east and west for many years, including such as the New York Times, Tribune and Herald; the Chicago Times, Tribune and Inter Ocean, and the San Francisco dailies, we unhesitatingly say that not one of them is superior to The Daily Oregonian. The men who have made it what it is, covet the honorable fame of continuing it in the front of all newspapers on the coast. Its greatest opportunity is now just before it, and the men who have made it are too far-sighted to give their glory and their power to others. In saying this about The Oregonian, we do not depreciate other newspapers, which are filling up their work honorably; but nearly or quite all others are specialists, while it is preeminently a newspaper.

WRINKLED FACES.

It is a painful sight to see young ladies in their teens with wrinkled and prematurely old faces; nevertheless it is quite common, and to any one who observes the tendency of the times the reason is very apparent. Owing to flaming advertisements and bogus certificates in which are used the names of eminent physicians and chemists, the unsuspecting and credulous have been induced to use some of the so-called liquid beautifiers, all of which are known to be positively injurious and if used for any length of time will destroy the complexion, so that it will be next to impossible to restore it. Mothers should be very careful to see that their daughters do not use these preparations but ask for and obtain Blackman's harmless Rose [illegible] Face Powder, the only harmless beautifier. So great is the faith reposed in Ayer's Pills by those who have given them a trial, that the consumption of them almost passes belief, far exceeding any precedent. Seven Persons Drowned by the Capsizing of a Skiff in the Hudson River.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Sun's Troy special: At about 6 this evening a large skiff owned by Giles Leroy of Port Schuyler drew up at Burden's wharf on this side of the river, to take residents of West Troy employed at Burden mills to their homes. The night was dark, and owing to a strong south wind and recent rains the waves were of unusual height and the river very high. As near as can be learned the following persons were in the skiff: Giles Leroy, Henry, his son, Francis Rielly, Garrett, his son, Thomas Manion and his son Thomas, John Lever, Thomas Fox, John Stevenson, John Kris, Milo Hatch, George Hay, Fleming Trimble, James Diamond, William O'Neill, Michael McMahon and three others, names not ascertained. When the boat had almost reached the middle of the river, Thomas Fox, who was sitting in the stern, saw three propellers rapidly approaching from the south. He called to the oarsmen to stop, but they failed to do so. The propeller nearest the west shore passed by within a few feet of the bow of the skiff. The latter, which all agree was overloaded, having her gunwales nearly even with the water, passed the first swell in safety, but on reaching the second shipped considerable water, the third almost filled the boat, and the occupants became greatly alarmed. The men, aware that the boat would sink, called for assistance, and one of the propellers, the Cora, turned around, but the others continued on. The Cora steamed slowly towards the skiff, but before she could reach it the boat had capsized and all the men were struggling in the water. Thos. Fox, being unable to swim, grasped the keel of the skiff and called to his associates to follow his example. Several of them did so, and held on until the Cora drew alongside. On board the Cora were John Kennedy and Charles Pickett and his brother. The last named, although but 14 years of age, displayed great bravery and wonderful presence of mind, calling on the men who were hanging to the capsized skiff to hold fast. He threw life preservers right and left to their unfortunate companions, and then bracing himself against the side of the tug pulled in John Lever, who weighed about 175 pounds.

The following men were then picked up by the Cora: Thos. Fox, John Lever, John Stevenson, Garrett Reilly, Thos. Manion, Jr., and two strangers, names impossible to ascertain. By this time several row boats had reached the scene and Fleming Trimble, Mr. Hatch, McMahon and Wm. O'Neill were picked up, Trimble being almost dead.

The following are known to be lost: Miles Leroy, the ferryman, and his son Henry, Francis Reilly, a teamster, who leaves a wife and eleven children; Thomas Manion, Sr., blacksmith's helper, who leaves a wife and five children; John Kris, a laborer, who leaves a large family; Geo. Hay, a single man about 25 years of age, and James Dimond, a married man with no children. Three others are unaccounted for.

Mrs. Leroy, who has been dangerously ill a long time and is not expected to live forty-eight hours, has not yet been informed of the loss of her husband and son. Mr. Manion buried a daughter only three weeks ago.

While it is admitted the skiff was overloaded, it is also agreed the propellers had no lights on their bows and that the tugs Cora, and Hattie Betts and Linda M. Newman were racing when the accident occurred. Capt. Harvey Robinson of the Betts and the captain of the Newman, when asked why they did not stop, said they did not hear cries for assistance and did not learn of the accident until an hour after.

The London Spectator states the total rents demanded in Ireland to be £17,000,000, or $85,000,000, a sum nearly equal to the interest on the British national debt. Is it any wonder that the Irish are poor after submitting to such merciless bleeding?

Late estimates of the destruction done by the fires in the Michigan forests give 1800 square miles of country burned over, with a loss of $2,346,000, on which there was about $164,000 insurance. Eight churches, 28 school houses, 130 stores and 1147 dwelling houses were burned.

"Better gimme that," continued the youth, "you're too excited to enjoy it."

ASSERTED LEADERSHIP.

Mr. Gladstone in a recent speech said that the people in the long run are more generally right on all public questions than the few who assume to lead or control them. This is an expression of a great truth. Just what we are is the result not of accident but of growth. What we do is not so much the result of individual advice as the prompting of general consent that a certain course is the proper one. The politician, trying to take care of his own interests, is often purblind on questions of actual principle. He misconceives the feelings of the people, misinterprets the signs of the hour, regards office and personal power as the end of political effort is unworthy of respect as of leadership, and only goes right when public opinion unmistakably points out the way.

It is a good sign that general culture, of the higher kind, makes this sort of political leadership increasingly difficult. Party is not a thing to conjure with as it once was. Men educated to independent thinking will not follow the professional politician, even though to be armed with such authority as the claim to party "regularity" can give him. It is the duty of every citizen to advocate rebellion against coarse, ignorant and selfish leadership; and "professional" leadership is always of that description. Such rebellion has long been highly honorable. It ought to be regarded as the most honorable, as it often is the most necessary part of political duty. The men who strive and expect to "live by politics," as they express it are, as a class, unworthy of trust or respect; and it is a good rule always for the independent citizen to oppose them and all their works. As a class they are incompetent for public business; they look for public place because they cannot succeed in private business; they are dominated by a mean and grovelling spirit and vulgar selfishness, and are usually the absolute property of a "boss," who can command their services at any moment and to any extent, for such political enterprises as he may have in view for his own objects and ends.

Of course, the professional politician is particularly at war with independent journalism. A newspaper that is strong enough to be independent of party, and courageous enough to make its independence felt, is to him the sum of all abominations. But the fact is, no leading paper anywhere now suffers itself to be governed by such partisan views as to praise all that is done by party, or to commend party leaders in all they do. The proper function of journalism is rather to find reasons for criticism and censure. There will be followers and flatterers enough. No journal that sticks to party right or wrong, that commends everything and criticises nothing, is worthy of respect, or can be actually successful. The New York Times appositely puts it thus: "It may not suit the ordinary notion of relations to party, but it is a fact that to a sensible journalist the choice between political organizations is never an absolutely unqualified one. No candid voter supposes that one party is perfectly right and the other perfectly wrong, and the journalist who goes on such a supposition counts too much on the ignorance and narrowness of his readers. In these days, at any rate, he would very soon learn his error by the general indifference to his views, however ingeniously they might be expressed." Many lessons have already been administered by the press to the arrogance of political dictatorship, and many more will be as occasion may require. Much as the professional politician and the machine boss dislikes the independent newspaper, he must make up his mind to stand it.

OUR BREADSTUFFS IN EUROPE.

Not long since there assembled at Berlin what was called a congress of German agriculturists. It was in fact a convention of great land proprietors, and its purpose was to consider means of warding off American competition in beef and breadstuffs, a competition which is seriously damaging the business of agriculture in the German empire and reducing the value and profits of lands held by the German barons. This congress or convention—an aristocratic affair, in which no peasant proprietor was allowed a seat—was approved by Bismarck, and the Prussian minister of agriculture and other government representatives attended its sittings. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the agriculturists of Germany consider the American competition in breadstuffs and meat a great danger to the future existence of German grain production and cattle-breeding; praying the imperial government to take such measures as are calculated to ward off these destructive influences, and further declaring that the prosperous development of agriculture and industry in Germany, as regards the immediate future, principally depends upon the passing of a tax-reform and upon the facilities offered for raising the national trade and commerce between the agricultural districts of the eastern provinces and the industrial districts of the western provinces. The congress urged as one of the important duties and tasks of the government the establishment of cheap means of transportation for agricultural products throughout the empire.

The argument of this congress in support of the resolutions, and which caused their unanimous adoption, is very voluminous, and only a mere outline of it is possible. America with her grain production has won the victory from Germany, Austria and Russia in the English market. The struggle between the various grain-producing countries and America has been tremendous. From 1846 to 1850 England imported 61.7 million cwts of wheat and flour; Germany and Austria supplying 19.6, Russia 12.1, France 5.8, other European countries 20.4, and America only 3.8. From this time on imports into England of American breadstuffs increased at a tremendous gait above the increase from other countries. From 1876 to 1880 England imported 262.9 cwts; America supplying 14[illegible].6, Russia 39.5, Germany and Austria 18.1, India 18.5, France 1.8, and other countries 45.6. The increase of American importations during the past five years is from 19.3 cwts of 44.4 to 36.1 of 55.2. Russia between 1840 and 1850 sent five times as much wheat to the British isles as North America, and that, in conjunction with the Austro-Hungarian back lands. It also continued to be the chief source of supply for the English market for the ten years, inclusive, from 1850 to 1860. Then was the height of prosperity for German agriculture. During the years 1860 to 1870 Russia succeeds to the first place, to give way in turn to North America. Owing to the political events in the Balkan peninsula and the failure of the crops in 1880, the American competition became predominant. Calculated according to per centage, English importation from 1880 amounted to: from America, 65.4; from Russia, 5.2; from Germany and Austria, 2.9; from India, 5.8; from Australia, 7.7; from other countries, 13.0; total 100.

Supporters of free international competition regard these figures with great satisfaction, insisting they show how the consumers in the British commercial empire are admirably supplied from every quarter of the globe, and that periods of high prices and famine can never return again. Two points, however, will be found to seriously disturb this flattering unction: The irremediable state of dependency upon Brother Jonathan for the supply of bread, and the terrible distress of the English farmers. The price of wheat which in a long series of decades of years up to 1874 had cost 50 to 60 shillings a quarter of 480 pounds English, after the appearance of American supplies fell from year to year down to 39 shillings in 1879. This price no longer covered the cost of production in England of wheat, and ruined the farmer. The consequence of this was the abandonment of wheat growing. Since 1874 the area under wheat in England has decreased from 3,823,000 to 3,070,000 acres—a falling off of 20 per cent. It is impossible to prove more clearly than by these figures the retrogression of the English cultivation of grain, which is chiefly based upon wheat. Nor can the hope be entertained of compensating for the poor crops by good ones in the future, for the free international competition now existing will not permit of any compensation. It may happen that the worst harvests in England will occur simultaneously with the richest harvests in other countries; and thus, in addition to a bad harvest low prices will ensue, whereby the losses will be doubled and trebled. But the prices have fallen more than the yields of the harvests.

The argument that is made as to cereals is also made with respect to beef. The prejudice of the English against fresh American beef has been overcome, and the increase of the importations into Great Britain of fresh beef, since 1876, is marvelous. This increase has been from 170,711 pounds in 1876 to 718,067 pounds in 1880, and the increase in the other articles of meat export is in proportion. The importations of live cattle, fresh and salt beef, at present amount to nearly half of the English beef killed in England, while the imports of pork, ham and bacon, almost equal two-thirds of the home production. Revising those various arguments, the congress of landed barons say:

> The fact that our agriculture is threatened with danger from America no longer admits of denial. The only question to be considered is whether Germany shall follow the path of England, let her agriculture go to ruin, and let her peasantry be driven to emigration, or whether a national German policy shall be adopted and an effort made to combine the old with a new in a national way, and to carry on uninterruptedly and without violent disturbances from outside the development of German culture and civilization. The care for self-preservation will readily point to the proper course to pursue against the enemy of our independence—a giant enemy, such as scarcely finds his equal in the world of fable. The unexampled augmentation of the American production of wheat may best be seen from the rapid increase of area under wheat, which amounted in 1871 to 19,343,893 acres; in 1874 to 24,967,027; in 1877 to 29,500,000; in 1880 to 36,087,950.
> Sixteen million of acres of new land were therefore transformed into wheat fields during the last ten years. What this amounts to is shown by the fact that the total area under wheat in Great Britain amounts to 3,000,000, in Germany to 5,500,000, and in France to 17,000,000 acres. If these three countries were to leave off growing wheat, the area in America would fill up the gap.
> The state of Minnesota alone cultivated some 2,059,683 acres of wheat in 1880, and in that year more than Great Britain. This gigantic increase of land brought under the plow is the most important factor of all in judging the American competition, for this increase is so tremendous that, even with bad harvests, the total yield of America must, nevertheless, grow larger from year to year. All hopes of our agriculturists of obtaining better prices in the event of an unfavorable American harvest are thus destroyed. The pressure of America on wheat prices must become stronger and stronger for a long time to come. Drought, locust and other catastrophes can alter the case but very little. Up to the present the average crops have not by any means been large, amounting only to from thirteen to fifteen bushels per acre. This is scarcely half as much as was formerly reaped in England. The American farmer, however, does very well with such yields. Wheat is the very grain for prairie and for land made arable for the first time, for its thriving depends less upon the cultivation and soil than upon climate and seasons. Rye, barley and oats demand more labor, and as there is less inquiry for them in the principal market, England, they are only grown for home consumption.

The barons then argue that the prosperity of grain culture rises and falls in proportion to the growth or lack of means of transportation; that for German agriculture there can be no other means of preservation than the closest connection of the grain-producing regions with the consuming manufacturing districts by the construction of canals and local lines of railway; that the more extensive the system of water communication becomes, the more powerfully all the national forces will unite and everywhere spread life and prosperity. Upon these considerations they ask the government to construct railways and canals, and the request has been received with favor. But whatever precautions Germany or any other country or countries may take America will always find a market in Europe for her breadstuffs.

In a late number of the Fortnightly Review an English periodical, there is an article on railways and waterways, which is full of interest to the American reader. The writer, William Fleming, contrasts the energy, enterprise and spirit of improvement of our railroad men with the sluggish, obstructive, monopolizing spirit that controls railroad management in England. He says freight is transported now over American railways at rates considered impossible only a few years ago. In England there is little or no improvement in any respect from year to year, and in every respect a long ways behind the American road. The reason given for this conceded superiority is that the rivalry of our waterways in America compel the roads to stretch their inventive faculties to the utmost to devise ways of cheapening the cost of handling and transporting goods. Notwithstanding so much complaint is made in the United States about the grasping, grinding railroad monopolies, these same roads are regarded as models of public convenience and accommodation in England, that and of cheap fares and cheap coal and cheap iron. If there is any land in the world where railways can be built, equipped and run cheaply it should be England, and we were not all prepared for the assertions and disclosures that appear in this article. England is not only in a very large degree seacoast, but possesses any number of rivers and canals on which boats can run. It seems that the English railroad companies have in some way got control of all the water transportation and do not allow them to compete. This is charged as true not only of internal water courses, but they are aiming to control the coasting trade besides, and are building up wharves and harbors of their own to the injury of some of the principal ports.

Brady got very rich while the star route business was going on. It is said he made his money in telephone stock. Dorsey also got very rich. His fortune has been attributed to mining speculations and cattle ranches. It will probably be shown that they lost money by their efforts to furnish the people of the sparsely settled regions of the west with mails. And now, worse than all is the ingratitude of the republic, which shows itself unable to appreciate disinterested services. A Washington correspondent says it is costing them a pretty penny to take care of themselves. At the beginning of the investigation Brady bought one newspaper outright, and one by one has acquired control of three or four others by furnishing their nominal owners with the means necessary to their existence. In addition, he has supported those clerks and contractors who have been thrown on their beam ends by the expose of the ring's coups, and he paid their counsel fees. It has been a heavy drain on him as well as on Dorsey, and the barrel of each is much smaller than it was.

The publishers of Puck have started a new periodical called Fiction. Its aim is denoted by its title. In it we notice a clever sketch entitled "The End of New York." It is a hit at the wretched condition of the American navy. It describes the breaking out of war between the United States and Spain in 1882, the arrival of a Spanish fleet and the bombardment of the metropolis, which is reduced to ruins. The city is compelled to surrender and promise an immense indemnity in money, when a Chilian fleet comes to avenge the merciless bombardment of Valparaiso by the Spaniards in 1866, and demolishes the bombarding fleet. Thus, the American navy is not a match even for that of poor old Spain, and a great power like the United States owes its deliverance to a little Pacific coast state like Chili. It is worth while to reflect that two European war vessels could turn the fiction as to destruction of New York into a fact of the most veritable and solemn kind.

All the democratic papers have been slaboring David Davis for not standing in with their party in the senate. The keenest sarcasm of all was the remark of the New York World—abiit ad plures—he has gone to the majority.

AN UNAUTHORIZED STATEMENT.

PORTLAND, Nov. 12, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Referring to an article on "early closing of stores," because of the poor quality of gas, and being unable to do business with such light, and our names being mentioned in said article, we have to say we have never authorized our names to be used at finding fault with the quality of gas, and our places of business will be kept open as heretofore. We further say that we are having a good quality of gas, and we think better than ever furnished the city of Portland.

OLDS & KING.

[The item referred to was brought to THE OREGONIAN office by C. J. Curtis, a clerk in the store of Olds & King, who laid it on the reporter's table with a memorandum, which led to the belief that Olds & King, with the other firms mentioned, had requested its publication as an announcement to patrons. The obvious explanation is that Curtis wants business to close early so that he may have his evenings for "a good time," and to bring this about did not scruple to use falsely the names of his employers and of the other firms designated.—ED. OREGONIAN.]

THE COURTS.

COUNTY COURT, BIRD, J.

In the matter of Lester N. Riley, a minor; final account confirmed and guardian discharged.

AN IMMENSE BUSINESS.—The rush at Mellis Bros. & Co.'s store last night exceeded anything which Portland has ever seen in the way of crowds. It was impossible for hundreds of customers to push their way into the store, and the doors were locked from time to time, and the people allowed to pass in and out only in platoons. Each one of the many clerks seemed to be waiting upon a dozen customers at once, and the extra force employed at the wrapping desk were working like Trojans putting the purchases in paper. The cash boys were in their element. The goods which the proprietors thought they might possibly dispose of during the evening were all sold in one hour's time.

THE PRIZES.—On exhibition in Barman's window, cor. First and Washington, may be seen the prizes to be awarded by the A. O. U. W. at their Carnival in the Pavilion on the evening of the 24th inst. They are as follows:—The best sustained character by a lady—silver set consisting of six pieces. Best sustained character by a gentleman—one dozen silver forks and pearl handled knives with elegant case. Ladies prize for most elegant costume—handsome toilet set. Gentleman's prize for the same—alabaster clock with bronze figure.

MR. CRUZAN'S FAREWELL.

HIS LAST SERMON TO HIS PORTLAND CONGREGATION.

A Brief Account of the Organization and Growth of the First Congregational Church, Etc., Etc., Etc.

Yesterday morning a large audience thronged the Congregational church to listen to the closing sermon of J. A. Cruzan, who has served the church for nearly five years as pastor. The opening services were unusually impressive, and the pastor's prayer an earnest thanksgiving for God's loving care over the church in the past, and a plea for His continued presence and guidance to be with the pastorless band of christians.

Mr. Cruzan chose as his text Deut. 31:6 "Be strong and of good courage, fear not nor be afraid of them, for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." The theme drawn from it was "God's loving care of His people." Mr. Cruzan first showed by graphic illustrations, God's loving care over His universal church; then His loving care over individual christians, and His loving care over individual churches. Under this last head of his discourse the speaker said:

Churches, true Christian churches, do not die. A heap, called a church, bound together by no great principles or vital truths, but gathered around some popular speaker, live as long as the man lives, or stays with them, then they die. W. H. H. Murray's New England church, so-called, in Boston, was an example of this. But a true church lives because it is founded on truth, and so the church cannot die, for truth is eternal. Christians pledge their vows, not to man, but to God. When financial disaster comes one would think that churches would be the first of all institutions to close their doors. But no. Banks close their doors. Great corporations pass into the hands of receivers, and solid business men are swept down in the whirlpool of financial ruin. But the churches do not close their doors. They stand midst every storm, because God is with them, and he shields and protects them by the right hand of his power.

The last few months has been a time of solicitude to many in this church—for I made no effort to conceal the object of my visit to the Islands of the Sea. The thought in many hearts has been, "What shall we do?" There is but one thing to do—trust in God. He never has deserted this church and he never will.

This church is a vine of his own planting. During the thirty years of its existence he has watered, enriched and cared for it. He has given it seed-time and glorious harvests.

When God would plant this church in the far forests, where now stands the beautiful city of Portland, he sent here Rev. Horace Lyman to lay broad and solid foundations. Organized with only twelve members, yet under the loving care of God and its first pastor, it grew apace. Then, at the end of four years, came its first crisis. Mr. Lyman thought it best—both for himself and for the church—for him to leave. Many of the members withdrew to form a Presbyterian church. Pastorless for more than a year, the little church seemed certain to go down. But God did not forget it. In his own time—in the right time—he sent it that bold, fearless uncompromising preacher, Rev. P. A. Chamberlain, who ministered here for five years.

On his dismission such was the divided state of the church and the large number of withdrawals, once more for the purpose of forming what is now the First Presbyterian church, that it seemed almost absolutely certain that this church would become extinct. Then at that dark crisis hour God sent to it Rev. Geo. H. Atkinson—first among all its pastors —who, for eight years, in the pulpit and in your homes, labored so wisely and with such eminent success that out of feebleness there came joyous strength; so that when James D. Eaton, the Christian gentleman and ripe scholar, came to the pastorate it was no longer a question whether the church would live and grow, but how great should be its growth. His pastorate covered three and a half good years; members were added to the church of such as shall be saved, and he left it strong not only in numbers, but in loving faith and in good works.

During the interregnum which followed—in your isolation from the base of supplies for Congregational ministers, God, in His loving care of you, had ready at hand for your pulpit that earnest, loyal Christian soldier, and able preacher, Rev. J. H. Acton, a Methodist, it is true, but none the worse for that, because his Methodism is always subordinate to his Christianity. Then God—for certainly it was not of our own choice—opened the way for your present pastor and his wife, to take up the work here and carry it forward for nearly five years. How that work has been carried forward it is not for me to say.

It is the ordinary custom, I know, for ministers in their closing sermons, to rehearse their good works, sing their own praises, more less, score their enemies and compliment their friends. It is a custom much better observed in the breaking than in the keeping. Nothing to me could be more distasteful at such a time as this.

I count no man or woman in Portland my enemy, but all friends. That I have offended some by my bold preaching of what I believed to be the truth, I well know. So did my master before me. But if there be enmity in any heart, it finds no response in mine.

In regard to our work here: If it has been such as to build up the cause of Christ, and to leave its impress for good on the moral and religious life of the city, then it needs no rehearsal. It is written in your memories, and will abide there. If it has not been such a work, then it is unworthy of rehearsal.

As in the past, so in the future, God will care for this church. He never has sent it or permitted to enter its pulpit an unclean man. He has always saved it from wolves in sheep's clothing, who would bring scandal or reproach upon the cause of Christ.

In His own time He will send you the right man as my successor. God grant that His time may come speedily. God grant, also, that your choice may be His choice—and that soon that genial Christian gentleman, that ripe scholar, popular preacher and wise pastor, Amory H. Bradford may come to stand in your pulpit, and go in and out before you as my successor.

Whatever else there may be in any heart this morning, let there be no doubt or distrust.

As we review the history of this church we should chant a hymn of victory: "Truly the hand of the Lord hath been good over us! He hath wrought deliverance for our Zion. We will still trust in thee."

At the close of the sermon the audience almost en masse passed up to the front and took the pastor by the hand and bade him "good-bye and God speed." In the evening the audience room was packed to repletion to listen to Mr. Cruzan's closing lecture.

FINE STEERING APPARATUS.

One day last week, Capt. H. H. Gorringe boarded the O. & C. railroad ferry, became interested in the workings of Gates' celebrated steering gear, and was so interested that he made several trips. So well was he pleased that he asked Capt. Jones to write an open letter with regard to the apparatus, that he might better be able to bring the matter before the naval authorities, with a possible view of its introduction into the United States steam vessels. Following is Capt. Jones' communication:

PORTLAND, OR., Nov. 11, 1881.

Capt. H. H. Gorringe, U. S. N.: In answer to your inquiries while on board the O. & C. R. R. ferry, the other day, of the working and the merits of Mr. Johnston's steering apparatus, it gives me much pleasure in telling you that since it was first put in two years ago, and being in constant use, not a bolt or screw have become disarranged to prevent its working. Its rapid motion, throwing the rudders from one extreme to the other in five seconds and without noise or thumping, where quick movement is so essential in our constant and varied turnings; the simple and easy method by which it is done, is what makes it so eminently successful. During the winter months when at times there is a six-mile current and the river is black with all sizes of drift, we have not pinned the bow rudder for a single trip.

The two rudders being moved the same way, and together, makes the boat answer her helm more readily, as you are aware, but in case of emergency or accident one or both can be disconnected, which is, I am sure, the only one in the known world where this novel process is applied.

Its worth I fully appreciate by being relieved from excessive manual labor, thereby giving me a new lease of life; for a seven-pound pressure will move the little lever that controls the boat during its eighty trips per day, on an average, throughout the year.

CHAS. F. JONES,
Commanding the O. and C. R. R. Ferry.

The Grant County News prints the following paragraph:

Portland has at last awakened to the fact that she cannot, situated as she is, much longer maintain the commercial supremacy of the northwest without an effort. Papers there advocate the levying of a special tax to raise money to deepen the lower Willamette and Columbia rivers. The interior has been taxed a long time for the benefit of Portland; it is time the tables were turned.

This is but a sample of charges constantly made by the interior press against Portland. Just what is meant by the statement that: "The interior has been taxed a long time for the benefit of Portland," it is hard to tell. If it means direct taxation, or the appropriation of the state's money for the benefit of this city, it is false, as not a dollar of such money has ever been used for that purpose. If it means an indirect tax upon the productions of the farmers, we call for the particulars and specifications. There is a great deal of loose talk about the oppression of the farmers and dealers of Oregon by Portland and Portland merchants, and it is about time we heard the last of it unless it has some better foundation than yet exists. Will our friends who deal so freely in general charges please be specific.

MONDAY MORNING NOV. 14, 1881.

SYNOD OF THE COLUMBIA.

Afternoon Session—Nov. 11th.

SALEM, Nov. 12, 1881

Synod met after recess at 2 P. M., and the exercises were of a general rather than of a strictly business character.

By agreement the report of the chairman of the committee on foreign mission was read. This report gave a valuable resume of the work in foreign lands. Rev. Mr. Dunning, its author, is always careful to make his reports interesting and complete. Some of the facts presented were of special interest, such as the comparative exhibit of our work in China and Japan and other fields.

The report of the committee on publication was presented. The Sunday school supply department of the board is one that ought to be sustained by all the churches. It provides a literature pure and stimulating, and unequaled in quality. The antidote for skeptical books and papers ought to be spread with a liberal hand throughout this whole northwest coast, as the infidel sentiment is always active.

The chairman of the committee on home missions, Rev. A. L. Lindsley, D. D., submitted a report and asked leave to introduce the subject at some later session, which was granted.

The missionary work of the synod of the Columbia is extended over a territory immense in its proportions. It includes all the country from California and Nevada on the south, Montana on the east, and also Alaska. Throughout this vast region missionaries are preaching the gospel, not only to our people but also to the native races, and to the Chinese. The growth of the churches is a steady one, and such as promises well for the future. Especially is the work among the Indians prosperous. Many hundreds have been gathered into organized churches, and are progressing rapidly toward civilization, and are fast solving the Indian problem. Furnishing schools, and school teachers, fitting up hospitals, teaching the agriculture and mechanical arts, is a much better way of dealing with the Indians than using soldiers to subdue the savage instinct. Already several tribes under the care of the synod are discarding the tribal form, and living on separate farms, and adopting the dress and habits of the whites, and in the case of the Nez Perces there are several native preachers.

The report as a whole was a valuable showing of the work of the year and was listened to with the closest attention throughout.

The synod devoted a short time to singing and prayer, and at 4 P. M. Rev. I. H. Condit read a brilliant paper on John Knox—the father of Presbyterianism in Scotland. The important part played by him in the most critical period of Scottish history, left an indelible stamp on the current of national thought and gave a new impulse to the rising spirit of popular liberty and free thought. Facing the Catholic spirit as embodied in Mary, Queen of Scots, he infused his own courage and enthusiasm into the Protestant party and although in constant peril of life he went forward until he triumphed, and saw his cause firmly established. A most heroic character, it was well said of him as his body was lowered into the grave, "Here lies one who never feared the face of mortal man."

After the address a paper was read from ladies on the subject of foreign missions, which was on motion laid on the table until to-morrow morning.

Synod then took a recess until 7 P. M.

7 P. M.—Synod resumed and after the singing of the beautiful hymn:

> "Watchman tell us of the night,
> What its signs of promise are."

the 72d psalm was read by the moderator and prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Clyde.

Rev. A. L. Lindsley, D. D., delivered a lecture on Alaska which was listened to with the closest attention by a large audience. The doctor is at home on all that pertains to Alaska, and his clear descriptions of scenery and inhabitants made a vivid impression on all who heard him. No man has done more for Alaska than Dr. Lindsley, and he is constantly devising plans for the furtherance of its interests. After the lecture a collection was taken for the benefit of Faith hospital, at Fort Wrangel.

DEATH'S MESSENGER TAKES A PIONEER.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Nathan Robinson is dead. A pioneer hero has taken his final leave, and crossed the river that flows 'twixt time and eternity. We stand on the shore and vainly attempt to pierce with mortal eye mist that hides the road taken by our friend. From this last farewell we turn for consolation to the study of the life of an upright man.

Nathan Robinson was born in Muskingum county, Ohio, in the year 1810, and died at his family residence, one mile south of Gervais in Marion county, in this state, Nov. 4, 1881, after a short though painful illness, having thus completed his seventy-first year. In 1834, in Crawford county, Ohio, he was joined in wedlock to Mary Dorland, who stays behind to walk in the path of life alone. In 1846 he with his young family immigrated to the Willamette valley, then best known as > —"the continuous woods

> Where rolls the Oregon, and hears no sound and settled the Robinson donation claim, now known as the Reedville farm, in Washington county. There he resided for fourteen years. Disposing of that property, he fixed his residence in Portland for a time. Being by occupation a farmer, he longed for the freedom and room of the country. To gratify his tastes, he purchased a landed estate near Gervais, in Marion county, where he spent his last days in congenial employments.
> Save its own dashings,"

In matters of farming his judgment was unerring. About his premises there was always an air of tidiness and thrift. In the early pioneer days of Oregon he had much to do in calling the attention of the Atlantic and Mississippi valley states to the capabilities of this country as a fruit-growing section. In the fifties, apples taken from his orchard, on what is now known as the Reedville farm, were exhibited in several of the states east of the Rocky mountains. Never before had apples of such size been seen in those parts, and peopled wondered what next. In public affairs he took a lively interest—an interest not narrow and selfish, but a broad and enlightened view calculated to benefit the community and state.

He was honored and respected by his neighbors as an upright, christian man. His integrity was never questioned. For many years before his death he was a member of, and a communicant in the Methodist Episcopal church.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son and two daughters. The son is a successful practicing physician in Jacksonville, Oregon. The eldest daughter is married to a leading druggist in Salem; and the younger (Mary) is at home.

The funeral of deceased, conducted by Rev. Mr. Denison of the M. E. Church, assisted by Rev. P. S. Knight, was from the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. Weatherford, in Salem, on Sunday last. Thus one by one, full of years, bearing the honors of true manhood, do our fathers go before. May we who linger a little longer be as well prepared to receive our summons as was our esteemed friend and neighbor, Nathan Robinson. COM.

GRANT'S NEW HOME.

The Riches of the World Beautifying the New York Grant Mansion.

[New York Letter in Cincinnati Enquirer.]

There is quite a flutter in society, owing to the announcement that General and Mrs. Grant are to give an elegant reception as soon as their new house is in perfect order and every day workmen and artists are bringing nearer the desired end. I understand not a single article has been bought or ordered for the first floor, the eighty cases of magnificent presents presented to the general on his foreign tour furnishing them throughout, as well as supplying the rest of the house with objects of art of every conceivable sort. No two pieces of furniture in the parlors and reception room will be alike. Curiously carved chairs, velvet and gold-embroidered divans and ebony and ivory fauteuil, upholstered with Gobelin tapestry and hand-wrought brocades, will take the place of the modern set.

The oriental hangings and Persian carpets were made for the ex-president as gifts, and Mrs. Grant will incur the everlasting envy of women by using the finest and most exquisitely woven cashmeres for the drapery of her own boudoir. The tables and stands are of buhl and mosaic work; the mirrors hang in curiously carved frames cut by the jack-knives of the skillful Swedish carvers. Pictures of every variety, and all of merit in different degrees, have frames in themselves works of art, while statuary and articles of virtu ornament the room lavishly.

In General Grant's private dressing room stands a miniature house of five stories and nearly three feet in height. It is of solid silver, curiously beaten and raised in queer flowers and odd birds. On opening the various doors and windows that lead out on comical little balconies can be discovered cases of frosted silver, containing bottles and flasks of carved ivory filed with different and delicious perfumes. This was presented to the owner in China. A pleasant reminder of India is a pair of superb elephant tusks nearly six feet in length, the polished ivory set off by elaborate gold mountings.

The wall on one side of the family sitting room is nearly covered by a remarkable Japanese picture—a hunting scene. The ground is of creamy satin and the subject is worked out in varied silk embroidery, the figures and foliage standing out as in real life and the colors exquisite and natural.

How exceptional a memory General Grant has is shown in the fact that he knows at a glance where each of these thousands of gifts came from, the name of the city, the donor and the circumstances of the presentation. He does not exhibit the least complacency in their exhibition, but Mrs. Grant shows a woman's natural gratification in them.

A Blasting Accident.

Helena (Montana) Herald, Nov. 3.—Particulars of the blast explosion on the Northern Pacific about ten miles west of New Chicago, Deer Lodge county, are stated as follows: The accident occured on the contract of Bennett, Fisk & Dunn. Two blasts of fifteen feet depth had been charged, one with seven kegs of blasting powder, and the other with a smaller quantity. When the fuse was ignited two explosions immediately followed. Bennett, a contractor, Anderson, his book-keeper, and a section boss, named Dunn, walked up to that point where the explosion occurred, and just at that moment the blast of seven kegs went off, and they were thrown one hundred feet into the Hell Gate river. Bennett was cut badly about the head and was severely bruised about the body and legs. Anderson was cut in the back of the head, and it is thought that he is internally injured. Dunn was also seriously hurt about the face and considerably bruised. Seven other men were under the hill near by, and three of that number were also hurt.

The academy at Colfax, pursuant to recommendation of the board of health, in fact all schools in almost every upper country town have been closed of late, until the smallpox danger is over.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—There is considerable improvement to note in the freight market via Cape Horn, and all ships are doing well from the fact that they have all the dead weight they require, while at the same time they are in receipt of plenty of light freight in the shape of agricultural goods, and the only drawback is the question of delivery. However, this is not likely to be serious as shippers of railroad iron are pushing their shipments, being in a hurry, while shippers of other classes of freights are pushing manufacturers. The D. H. Sutton has about finished and the Josephus will close out in a day or two and will be followed by the Charman, to close in a month. Rates remain very firm, especially for weight, as both lines have considerable railroad iron to move before the close of the year, and prospects are that shippers of other weight will have to pay more, particularly as agents are paying more for their ships. Tonnage is rather scarce and there are very few ships pointing this way and of these most of them are committed for some business or other. The new bark Corolitz is about to be launched at Bath for San Francisco. The owners will take as cargo coal and the accoutrements of a small mill.

Isthmus freights are still very dull. The steamer yesterday had for San Francisco 22 cs figs, 50 bxs raisins, 4500 kegs nails, also for China 1415 bales sheetings.

Railroad freights are still quite active. Shipments the past week include 1370 kegs herring, 1449 pkgs tobacco, 3050 cases coal oil, 2520 cans baking powder, 1205 bbls oysters, 30 bbls dried fruit, 53 pkgs figs, 334 cases canned goods, 25 bbls currants, 73 pkgs nuts, 10 cases citron, 10 frails dates, 530 bxs, lemons, 60 bbls whisky, 60 bxs pepper sauce; also several lots of dried and green fruit, via Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad.

Markets are generally quiet except wheat, options of which are active and higher.

The freight market via Cape Horn shows considerable activity, and prospects are for a continuance of the same for the next sixty days. The ship E. B. Sutton finished to-day. Her cargo comprises in part 455 tons coal, 500 tons railroad iron, 470 cases canned goods, and upwards of 1000 packages agricultural goods. Rates remain very firm with a tendency to advance in heavy goods. Rumors are rife that an amicable understanding between the U. P. R. R and Pacific Mail Co., regarding the freight question, has been arrived at, and that the contract will be renewed on nearly the same terms as before. The rumor is denied in some quarters, but there is reason to believe that a contract of the same sort will be made and that at an early date.

Freights at Boston are active, and the Sintram has so far advanced that the agent expects to get her off by the 15th inst. The Oakland is on berth to follow.

Railroad freights at Boston are also active, with shipments the past week of 433 barrels cranberries, 15 barrels coal oil, 35 barrels hops, 3056 packages fish, 100 cases baked beans, 50 boxes raisins, 8 cases figs, 1120 cases canned fish.

Freights at Philadelphia are rather quiet than otherwise. The Santa Clara has sailed and the Theobald will take her place. The latter is some 20 years old, but has been overhauled lately.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Business in general markets the past week has been rather light owing to the occurrence of the annual election as well as to unfavorable weather. Prices as a general thing have been steady for most commodities.

Wheat—At close has shown more activity and exporters have shown more disposition to operate; but a higher freight market has served to check dealings that were likely to have assumed large proportions; ungraded white, 132½@133.

Barley—Quiet, No. 1 Canada, 115; No. 1 bright 116@117.

Pork—Nominal and without business.

Lard—Quiet, firm.

Rio coffee—Extremely dull, prices weak.

Refined sugars—In demand, firmer on some grades of hard.

Foreign fruits—Dull; the stock of raisins has been increased by the importation of 90,000 boxes during the past few days. Prices, however, are not affected; dried apples scarce and firmly held.

Hops—Are without animation; choice state 29@30.

Quicksilver—Quiet and easier at 44@44½.

Borax—In moderate demand and prices steady.

Hides—Dull and business restricted by wide differences between buyers and sellers; leather in fair demand and firmer.

Resin—Dull.

Petroleum—Slow.

Crude sperm—Oil lacks firmness though not quotably lower.

Hardware—Retains a strong demand but no changes announced.

Nails—Good demand, but there is a lack of large orders to give the market tone. Other metals quiet.

Wool—Quiet, but there are no features of a depressing nature. Sales of California include 400,000 pounds spring, 23½@30c; 45,000 pounds fall, 19@22c.

Dry Goods—Trade very quiet, but prices are firm.

Chicago Business Transactions.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The week's financial operations have been retarded and diminished by streaks of exceedingly bad weather, which culminated Friday in a heavy rainstorm that lasted from early morning until after business hours, and cleared the streets effectually of travel and traffic. Money goes well at 6 to 7 per cent. Clearings continue to show a gratifying increase over those of last year, reaching for the first time in six years $50,000,000. Mercantile trade has been good only in certain kinds of goods. Dry goods, carpets, millinery, manufactured clothing, hats and caps, leather, bagging, groceries, hardware and drugs, showed most animation. Whisky dropped a cent, but is still far above surrounding markets and the price fixed by dealers here is generally regarded as a nominal one, at which no transactions have been made. The crops throughout the western country are looking well and there is every reason to feel encouraged as to next year. The present status, however, is not satisfactory, as the granaries at shipping points are comparatively depleted. The close of navigation has not yet come. There are rumors of corners in corn and wheat, but nothing reliable can be learned. Prices of every commodity dealt in on 'change have become firmer from day to day, closing to-day at outside prices all round, and with firm feelings. Sales of the December option were made during the week as follows: Wheat 126⅛@132⅛, corn 57½@60½, oats 41½@44½; sales January options: Pork 16 70@17⅛, lard 10½@11½. Receipts for the week of grain were as follows: Flour 67,000 bbls, wheat 213,000 bus, corn 190,400, oats 275,000. Shipments of flour 60,000 bbls, wheat 156,000 bus, corn 1,752,000 bus, oats 249,000. Receipts for the same time last year: Flour 105,000 bbls, wheat 873,000 bus, corn 1,144,000 bus, oats 343,000 bus. shipments; flour 94,000 bbls, wheat 308,000 bus, corn 255,000 bus, oats 489,000 bus.

The receipts of flour are comparatively small, which is accounted for by the fact that millers at interior points have great difficulty in getting good milling wheat. Wheat receipts fall far short of those of a year ago, but corn comes in more freely, while oats are a little less plenty. The shipments keep pretty even pace with receipts but slightly exceed them in the aggregate, although falling short of last year's shipments. There were received at the U. S. yards 165,000 hogs, against 140,000 the previous week and 246,000 last year. The impression is growing and has a good basis that packing operations will be in a much smaller sale than those of 1879-80 or even of 1881.

King of the Blood

Is not a "cure all;" it is a blood-purifier and tonic. Impurity of blood poisons the system, deranges the circulation, and thus induces many disorders, known by different names to distinguish them according to effects, but being really branches or phases of that great generic disorder, Impurity of Blood. Such are Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Backache, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Swellings, &c., &c. King of the Blood prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the Blood. Chemists and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists, $1 per bottle. See testimonials, directions, &c., in pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

HOSTETTER'S

BITTERS

One of the Reasonable Pleasures

Of life, a properly cooked meal, affords little or no present enjoyment and much subsequent torture to a confirmed dyspeptic. But when chronic indigestion is combatted with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters the food is eaten with relish, and, most important of all, is assimilated by and nourishes the system. Use this grand tonic and corrective also to remedy constipation, biliousness, rheumatism, fever and ague.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them A FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician for cure, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

U. S. MARSHAL'S CITATION.—UNITED States of America, district of Oregon, ss.: Whereas, A libel of information hath been filed in the district court of the United States of America for the district of Oregon, on the 9th day of November, 1881, by Mr. Rufus Mallory, United States attorney, against 14 cases of distilled spirits and 2 cases of wine, which, by Mr. J. C. Horr, a special agent of the Treasury Department of the United States, on the 15th day of October, 1881, at Harrisburg, in the territory of Alaska, were seized as forfeited to the United States for the reasons and causes in said libel mentioned, and praying the usual process and monition of the said court in that behalf to be made, and that all persons interested in the said property may be cited to answer the premises, and, all due proceedings being had, that the said property above mentioned may, for the causes in said libel mentioned, be condemned as forfeited to the use of the United States, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided. Therefore, In pursuance of the said monition, under the seal of the said court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give notice unto all persons claiming the said property or knowing anything to say why the same shall not be condemned as forfeited to the use of the United States, pursuant to prayer of said libel of information, that they be and appear before the said district court, at the city of Portland, in said district, on the 5th day of December, 1881, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, if the same shall be a day of jurisdiction, otherwise at the next day of jurisdiction thereafter, then and there to interpose a claim for the same and to make their allegations in that behalf. Dated at Portland, in said district, this 12th day of November, 1881. EDWARD S. KEARNEY, United States Marshal for the District of Oregon. n12d15
